It's one thing to write a plan – it's another to turn it into well-executed action on the ground.

So one year on from launching our ambitious plans (‘The Gameplan for Growth’) I am glad to report we are on track to deliver the big goals we set – but it is still early days.

Progress has been driven by a collective effort across the football family – The FA, the County FAs, clubs, leagues and the education sector. Much-welcome increased investment by The FA Board has also helped turbo-charge our efforts.

We are striving to ensure that ALL girls and women are welcomed and valued as players, coaches, referees and administrators. Our new initiatives in schools and our SSE Wildcats Centres have opened up opportunities for many more girls to enjoy football for the first time.

We aim to sustain that interest by ensuring we have safe and well-lead sessions in our clubs and communities.

That’s why we’re delighted that our initial programmes for the development of grassroots coaches and referees have been so well received. Our newly-established eight Women’s High-Performance Football Centres based in universities around the country will be central to this work – and to our new FA WSL Academies for 16-20 year olds.

Competition is an important component for many players at all levels. We have reviewed the top end of our competition pyramid working in partnership with our FA WSL clubs to create a new Tier 1 and Tier 2 structure. This is a bold step but one we hope will provide all players with an appropriate high-quality playing environment and create a stronger more attractive product for broadcast and commercial partners.

The England teams continue to develop at every age group. After a challenging six months, 2018 is unfolding positively, with the clear ambition of being one of the main contenders for the FIFA Women’s World Cup in 2019.

Finally our marketing and communications teams have worked tirelessly to get the message out and to build new perceptions about the women’s game. We want to reach a wider fan base through different channels and in a variety of ways and to ensure the match day experience is a great one for the whole family.

You will see we have made a good start in every area but we are only in the foothills – there is still a mountain to climb. We have the desire and aspiration to drive this game to new heights but it will take creativity, courage and a constant willingness to challenge the status quo.

THE YEAR AHEAD

Our ambitions for the next 12 months as we work towards our three big goals:

1. DOUBLE PARTICIPATION
2. DOUBLE FANS
3. CONSISTENT SUCCESS ON THE WORLD STAGE

PLAYING THE GAME

• Grow the number of entry points to the game for girls – through schools’ partnerships and increasing number of SSE Wildcats Centres.
• Launch a formal pathway for women and girls to progress, calibrating age, ability and ambition.

REFEREEING

• Regional training for female referees, working with Women’s High-Performance Football Centres.
• Enhanced professionalism of refereeing at the top level of the women’s game.

COMMERCIAL/MARKETING

• Win the right to host 2021 UEFA Women’s EURO Championships (decision being made December 2018).
• Attract new commercial partner(s) to the women’s game – specifically The FA WSL.

COMPETITIONS

• Make the 2018/19 domestic season the most competitive to date – based on new-look leagues underpinned by new licensing structure.
• Launch The FA WSL Academy programme in time for the 2018/19 season.

PERFORMANCE

• Pathway established to and through the age-level women’s teams, including a learning curriculum at each stage.
• Develop a Talent ID strategy integrated across the women’s performance pathway, allowing us to identify and confirm potential elite-level talent and manage accordingly.

COACHING

• Support 100 female/BAME coaches in the women’s and girls’ game to be awarded a bursary to take The FA Level 3 (UEFA ‘B’) coaching qualification – and achieve it during 2018/19 season.
• Support 12 female/BAME coaches in the women’s and girls’ game to be awarded a bursary to take The FA Level 4 (UEFA ‘A’) coaching qualification.
• 30 additional coaches to gain a place on The FA Level 4 (UEFA ‘A’) course in the 2018/19 season.
• Embed a new women’s coach development workforce within The FA Education National Coach Development (NCD) team to support coaches through their UEFA ‘A’, UEFA ‘B’ and Pro Licence qualifications.
• Identify coaches in the women’s game at performance/talent level and provide a bespoke programme to develop them.
We would like to thank all the partners to the women’s and girls’ game. Their input is vital to grow and sustain the game.

Such organisations include ‘internal’ partners to the game such as all the clubs and Community Trusts in the game’s current structure – as well as the pivotal role played by County FAs.

‘External’ non-commercial partners include educational bodies at primary, secondary and tertiary levels – and of course, the various government departments and agencies, whose remit the girls’ and women’s game can help fulfil.
In March 2017, The FA published ‘THE GAMEPLAN FOR GROWTH’, its four-year strategy for women’s and girls’ football. To read more about the women’s and girls’ game, visit: TheFA.com/womens-girls-football
