Barclays FA Women's Super League

2021-22 Season Guide

Barclays FA
Women's Super League

272 players, 12 clubs, one league – all in one place

Who's the all-time leading goalscorer in the Barclays FA Women's Super League? What number does Maya Le Tissier wear for Brighton & Hove Albion? And what's the correct pronunciation of Valerie Gauvin of Everton?

All these questions – and many, many more – are answered in this season guide to England's top professional league for women, currently in its 11th season. Whether you're a member of the media covering the league, or have a particular interest in women's professional football, this season guide will give you all the information you need at your fingertips.

As you'll see, there's a comprehensive rundown on all 12 clubs, including squad lists, key facts and contact details.

Whatever your interest in the Barclays FA Women's Super League, thank you for playing your part in the ever-increasing interest the league is generating. Having a strong top-flight women's league makes the game stronger at every level. It can inspire young girls to join a pathway that can take them to the very top – or simply to play football for fun, fitness and friendship.

Kelly Simmons, OBE
The FA's Director of the Women's Professional Game

BARCLAYS

Barclays has been providing banking services around the world for more than 325 years. For almost a third of that time, the bank has supported football, starting with its role as banker to The FA, and this year celebrating 20 years of Premier League sponsorship.

Two years ago Barclays expanded its football interests when it became title sponsor of the Barclays FA Women's Super League and the lead partner of the Barclays Girls' Football School Partnerships. Its league sponsorship aims to support the growth of the women's professional game, while the Football School Partnerships aim to give girls equal access to football in schools by 2024.

Barclays is a British universal bank, diversified by business, by different types of customer and client, and by geography. The businesses include consumer banking and payments operations around the world, as well as a top-tier, full service, global corporate and investment bank. All are supported by the bank's service company, which provides technology, operations and functional services across the Group.

Over the coming years Barclays will continue to support football through its partnership with The FA and Premier League and by providing services to the football industry as a whole, building on relationships fostered over many years.
